

Setting up wireless on Windows 7

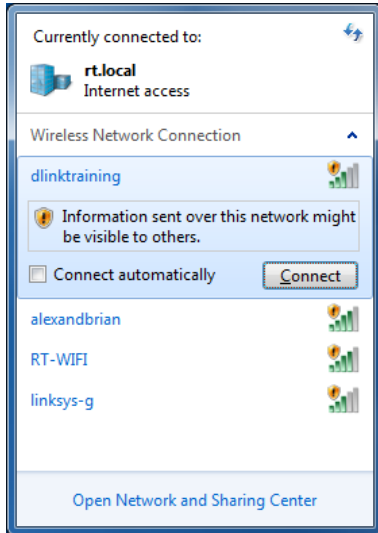

1. Find this icon by your clock at the bottom right corner of your screen and left click it.

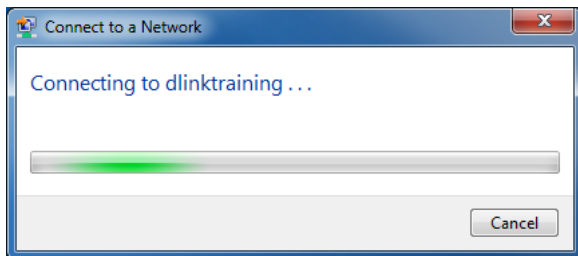

2. You will see the list of available wireless networks. Select your network.

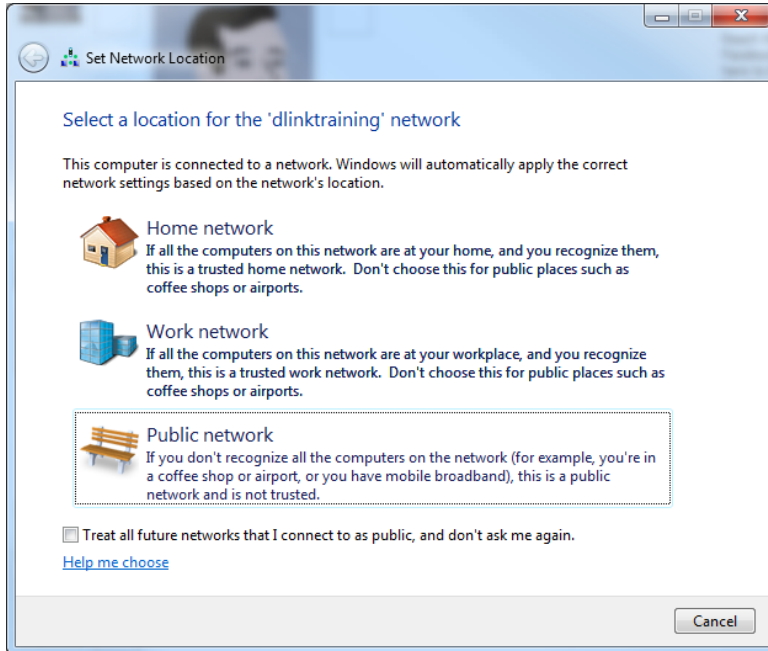

3. You will have the option to select "Connect automatically". Do this if you do not want to always have to reconnect to your home network. Finally click the "Connect" button.

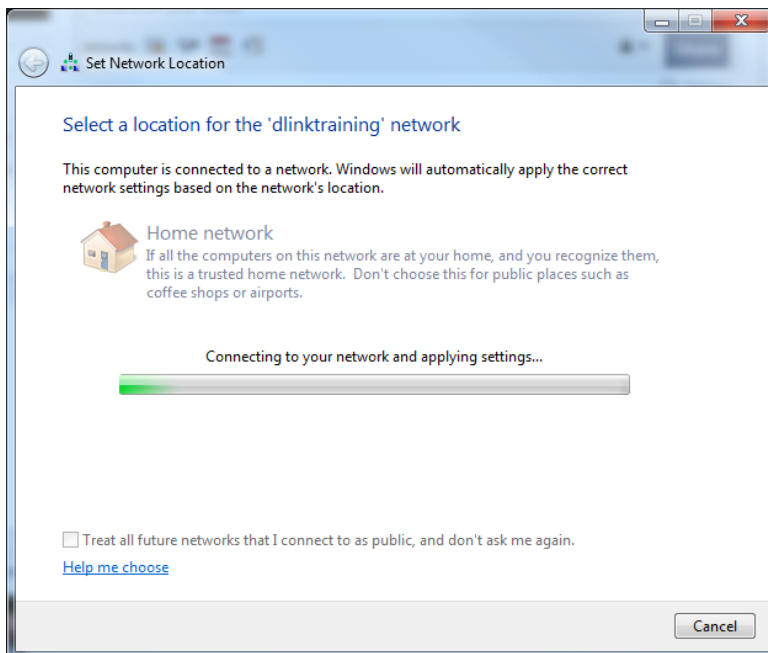

4. The computer will start to connect to the wireless network you chose.

5. Choose the type of network you want. If you are not sure what kind you want there is a "Help me choose" option at the bottom left corner of the window.

6. Your computer will apply the settings.

7. Your computer is now connected to your wireless network. Click the "Close" button and you are ready to start browsing the internet.
